

A NURSE'S EXPERIENCE.

Backache, Pains in the Kidneys, Bloating, Etc., Overcome.

A nurse is expected to know what to do for common ailments, and women who suffer backache, constant languor, and other common symptoms of kidney complaint, should be grateful to Mrs. Minnie Turner, of E. B. St., Anadarko, Okla., for pointing out the way to find quick relief. Mrs. Turner used Doan's Kidney Pills for a run-down condition, backache, pains in the sides and kidneys, bloated limbs, etc. "The way they have built me up is simply marvelous," says Mrs. Turner, who is a nurse. "My health improved rapidly. Five boxes did so much for me I am telling everybody about it."

Remember the name—Doan's. Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Sweet, Yellow, Smooth Pumpkin Pye

THE birds of the Hudson may sing of the melon. Its smooth jetty seeds and its ripe ruddy core. And the feast of the reaper with ecstasy dwell on. Reclining at noon on the cool breezy shore. For me the rich soil of New England produces. An offering more dear to the taste and the eye. The bright yellow pumpkin—how mellow it juices. When tempered with ginger and bak'd into pye.

LET others with dainties their appetite pamper. And gaze with delight on the splendors of plate. Be stunned with a bustle, and bid pages scamper—Such pleasures as these I resign to the great. But give me the feast when no knives and forks clatter. Where each to the neat cherry table draws nigh. And carve for himself from the broad earthen platter. A slice of the sweet, yellow, smooth pumpkin pye.

THERE are those who delight in the fig and the raisin. In quaffing the milk from the coconut's shell—Some, the olive and pomegranate lavish their praise on. The orange's glow and the pineapple's smell. I leave them the product of both of the Indies. And all the rich fruits of a tropical sky. Their exquisite juices and flavors and tinges. And ask no dessert save the sweet pumpkin pye.

THEN hail to the muse of the pumpkin and onion. The Frenchman may laugh and the Englishman sneer. At the land of the Bible, and Psalm Book and Bunyan. Still, still to my bosom her green hills are dear. Her daughter is pure as her bright crystal fountains. And, Hymen, if ever thy blessings I try. O give me the girl of my own native mountains. Who knows how to temper the sweet pumpkin pye.

Around the Fire Thanksgiving Evening

ULL justice has been done the Thanksgiving dinner from soup to nuts and raisins. The somnolent spirits have taken their after-dinner nap and the more strenuous ones have come back from a brisk after-dinner tramp. It's growing colder outside. Twilight is approaching. Within, around the open fire, housemates and guests have gathered for an evening of Thanksgiving jollity.

And now what shall we do? No dry, brain-racking game of whist, no stilly hand of bridge—nothing like that is meant for this glorious occasion. Any kind of cards is too exclusive, too cold blooded for this hour. No, next on the Thanksgiving program is an evening of good, wholesome, silly, jolly games.

A few suggestions in the line of games of this sort may help the housemother make this Thanksgiving evening an especially jolly one.

"Telegram" is a good game to get every one into good humor as quickly as possible. Supply each member of the company with a pencil and a sheet of paper. Each person is then to say offhand some letter of the alphabet. The letters, in the order named, are taken down by the whole company. The stint set is for each one to write a telegram made up of words beginning with the letters given. All the letters must be used, the original order must be preserved and no extra words can be added. When the telegrams are completed they are gathered in, mixed up and dealt out again that responsibility for and personality in them may be impossible to place.

After they have been read, a new set of letters is given and new telegrams composed. Very shortly each one in the company will be chuckling with delight over his own efforts and roaring with laughter over the ingenious and ridiculous conglomerations that will be read. From A B C D E F G H I J, for instance, one might produce "Aunt Betsy's cow dying"—"Editha flunked German"—"Holo-caust imminent, Jane." Another might make of it "All broken-hearted. Come directly. Ever faithful George has ignominiously flied."

"Gossip" is great fun, though no one wants to play it more than a few minutes. Let the entire company stand side by side on a straight line. Then let the person who stands at one end whisper something very quickly in the ear of his next door neighbor. The minute he stops whispering, the next door neighbor imparts the message just as swiftly and just as secretly to his neighbor and so on down the line.

When the last person in line is reached the originator of the message tells the company what he said and the man at the other end what was said to him. Of course, the original remark has been garbled. The moral and the laughter are both obvious.

Games in which two of the company, confederates, mystify the rest are always fun, although they can, of course, be played only once. Prime among these is "The Wand Passes." One of the company is sent from the room. Another, who is in league with the first, promises that when he holds the wand, which may be a cane or umbrella, over some member of the company, the exiled member will be able to tell over whom. The door must be left open. The confederates explain that this in order not to interrupt the current of electricity between them.

The magic-monger allows the company to chat a few minutes after his confederate has departed. Then he suddenly breaks in upon the conversation, waving the wand and saying in a sepulchral tone, "The wand passes." The exile answers from the next room very solemnly, "Let it pass." Again comes the announcement, "The wand passes," and again the answer, "Let it pass." The third time the possessor of the wand holds it over some head and inquires, "The wand rests over whom?"

Then is the exile promptly to answer, "Over so-and-so," naming the right person. The trick is accomplished by having it arranged that the confederate who remains in the room shall hold the wand over the person who spoke last before the announcement, "The wand passes." All the exile in the next room need be able to do is to distinguish the voices of the company.

Another mystifying game is called "Chinese writing." Take grandfather's cane in your hand; request your confederate to step into the hall. All decide upon a rather short word, say, "meat." Both of you understand that you will tap with your cane for the vowels according to their regular order; a, one tap; e, two taps; i, three taps; o, four taps; u, five taps, and that the first letter of the first word of every remark that you make after your confederate enters will be a consonant of the word she is to guess. The taps of the cane will be the vowels according to their order.

As she enters you begin marking on the floor with your cane marvelous characters, which the whole company will watch eagerly. As you write you say casually, "Must I write fast?" Here she gets the "M." Then you make two heavy taps as you write, which, according to the code means "E." After a little more writing make another single tap for the "A." Then say naturally, "Try to follow me very closely," which gives her the "T" to complete the word. Go on writing mysteriously for a moment or two and then ask her if she has read the word all right. She will doubtless be able to tell the company, to their great astonishment. With a little ingenuity you can make your remarks sound very natural and hence make the trick seem very puzzling.

If you have in your company any person good natured enough to appreciate a joke on himself, the following trick will furnish much fun: Announce that you will hypnotize any friend who is willing to follow your directions. Retire from the room and take two cups and saucers. Put your own carefully aside. Then take the other saucer and hold it over a lamp or candle until the under part is covered with soot. Put the cup back in the saucer. Fill the cups with water. Then tell your friend who is to be hypnotized that it is impossible for the spell to work unless he follow your directions exactly. Present him with a cup and saucer. Tell him to hold these in his left hand, and, looking straight into your eyes and nowhere else, to do exactly what you do.

Then dip the fingers of your right hand in the water, rub them on the under side of his saucer's thick with cabalistic passes over your forehead and cheeks. The patient to be hypnotized will do the same, and as the under side of his saucer is thick with soot every cabalistic pass will leave its mark. The effect on the part of the company who are entirely unprepared for this denouement soon enlightens the victim. The soot scrubs off easily and there is no harm done, provided you have been wise enough to select a good natured person for your hypnotic influence.

Eating for Strength.

The greatest pleasure to be derived from eating is the pleasure one gets in the knowledge that his food is giving him greater strength and vitality.

Because of this fact there is a constant increase in the consumption of Quaker Oats; every time the strength making qualities of Quaker Oats have been tested by scientific investigation or by experiments in families it has been found to be a food without an equal.

It builds the muscles and brain without taxing the digestive organs; it costs so little anyone can afford it, and it is so carefully prepared and packed that it is absolutely pure and clean. A Quaker Oats eating family is always a healthy family.

Quaker Oats is packed in regular size packages and also in large size family packages. The latter very convenient for those not near the store.
